La Follette Leaders Disapprove of His Failure to Laud the Governor.

CRITICISE HIS ACTIONS OPENLY

The Governor Will Seek to Secure Democratic Votes—Many Speakers in the State—Hot Campaigning.

(By Staff Correspondent.)
Milwaukee, Oct. 18.—La Follette leaders are not under the collar. They do not make any bones of the matter. They are up and in arms against the national republican party and they do not care who knows it. Senator Charles W. Fairbanks, republican nominee for vice-president, nominated by the same convention that recognized the opera-house convention as the only republican convention in Wisconsin, failed to mention La Follette's name in his speech at the Davidson theatre last Saturday. It is said, and upon good authority, that state Chairman Connors of the La Follette wing has sent a letter to the national committee that speakers who come into Wisconsin to discuss national issues must also talk on the state issue and endorse the governor. There is a story that has drifted in from the western part of the state that Speaker Cannon's trip was not all that could be desired. In fact, it is even hinted in official quarters that at Mineral Point when he asked for cheers for Roosevelt, Fairbanks, and Hancock, he was met with three cheers and a large number of hisses.

Many Discomfited.
In fact, the general feeling of the anti-republican men is not in smooth water. They do not know just how matters are coming out. They have their doubts. Many of the game wardens are becoming discouraged. Many of the old inspectors are losing heart. They see their job slipping away from them if Robt is elected and they are fighting desperately. The word has gone out to defeat all the members of the legislature and against the governor. The famous "unfair list" has been sent out and carefully conned by the faithful but some way they do seem able to hold the other faithful in line. Meanwhile the democrats have wakened to the fact that something is doing. They are really beginning to realize that they have a desire on earth beyond voting for Robt and are making ready to fill that idea by voting against him. All over the state come murmurings of rising in their might among democrats.

The Governor
Gov. La Follette will spend this week in speaking in Iowa, Dane, and Jefferson counties. His itinerary is as follows: Tuesday—Rowley, 8 a. m.; Mukewago, 11 a. m.; Barneveld, 1:30 p. m.; Dodgeville, 7:30 p. m. Wednesday—Avoca, 9 a. m.; Mount Horeb, 8 p. m.; Thursday—Mazomanie, 9 a. m.; Middleton, 11 a. m.; Waunakee, 2 p. m.; Dane, 4 p. m.; Oregon, 9 a. m.; Friday—De Forest, 9 a. m.; Sun Prairie, 11 a. m.; Degriff, 2 p. m.; Cambridge, 4 p. m.; Stoughton, 8 p. m.; Saturday—Jefferson county; places not yet arranged. It is probable that he will go into Rock county next week.

The Figures
The Wisconsin State Journal prints the following table of figures that worries the administration not somewhat: Two years ago the vote stood using round numbers:
La Follette, Rep. 193,500
Roosevelt, Dem. 146,000
Prohibition 9,000
Social democrat 16,000
La Follette's plurality over

PARKER ARRIVES FOR SHORT STAY

Is in New York to Settle Many perplexing Questions on the Campaign.

(Special by Scripps-Mellie.)

FIRE ABCARD THE HANCOCK

United States Receiving-Ship Latest Boat to Have Disaster.

New York, Oct. 18.—Fire was detected early Monday on the United States receiving-ship Hancock at the New York navy yard. A fireman had occasion to open a water-tight compartment, when he found that the place was filled with smoke. In spite of the utmost exertions, it was several hours before the seat of the flames could be reached. The cause of the fire is shrouded in mystery.

A. M. E. Church Fight

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 18.—A split between the southern born and the northern born members of the African Methodist Episcopal church may result from the efforts to place President Elder Lowrey in charge of Bethlehem church, Pittsburg.

CADETS CROSS RIVER TO STOP WIFE BEATER

Four Lads Swim Stream to Protect Woman and Father From Attack by Furious Drunken Man.

Delafield, Wis., Oct. 18.—Four cadets of St. John's military academy, William Mangler and "Calby" Griffin, of Chicago; L. Wright of Cleveland, Ohio, and James Richmond of Dunkirk, N. Y., while walking down the north bank of Bark river heard shrieks coming from the old Davis homestead on the opposite side of the river. Looking across they saw a man beating another aged man and a woman. Plunging through the river, the cadets rushed to the house, where they found a farmer in a drunken fury alternately kicking and beating his wife and father-in-law. Cadet Wright by using a brick as a weapon was able to hold off the farmer until two of the other boys went after Deputy Sheriff Kuntz, who overpowered him and took him to Oconomowoc.

Death in Motor Race.

Paris, Oct. 18.—The annual 100-kilometer race for motor boats at Maison Laite, on the river Seine, was attended with a fatal accident, the wash of another competitor swamping the Mercedes 1, which sank, and her engineer, named Noel, was drowned.

The Czar (over long-distance 'phone to soldier): "Hello! I'm going to send you fellows 478,000 sets of furs for winter wear."
Soldier (over 'phone): "Don't bother; there's a set of Japs here keeping it warm enough for us."

(Special by Scripps-Mellie.)
Chicago, Oct. 18.—The jury today awarded damages of $10,000 to Emma Grennell, a fifteen year old girl, against the Union Traction company, for injuries caused by being run over by a car in 1905. This is the third trial of the case.

STUDENTS START RIOT WHILE FLAG RUSH IS ON

Twenty Men and Five Co-eds Are Injured, One of the Latter Sustaining a Gash Over the Eye.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Oct. 18.—A riot started at the University of Cincinnati flag rush when Jesse Quiltman, a non-combatant student, engaged in an argument with a bystander. Twenty students, among them five co-eds, were injured. The men came to blows, and as several policemen rushed up to part them, Arthur Hurley, a sophomore, and another spectator clashed. This resulted in a general fight.
A half dozen co-eds, seeing their sweethearts worsted, rushed into the scrimmage. Four of them fainted and were trampled under foot and another received a blow over the left eye that left a gash three inches long.
A squad of police succeeded in quelling the riot, and as they dragged the leaders in the fight to a near-by engine house they were stoned.

Qualification for Brides.

Surgeon-General Evans of the British army said in a lecture that when a clergyman engaged in marrying a couple asks whether any one present knows of any reason why the parties before him should not be joined in matrimony, the objection, "the bride can't cook," ought to be enough to at least postpone the wedding.

STATION AGENT YIELDS MONEY

Opened the Safe at the Command of the Bandit with a Loaded Revolver.

TWO REVOLVERS ROBBER'S AIDS

Desperado Forced Employee to Hand Over Coin—Secured Four Hundred Dollars in Currency From the Strong Box.

(Special by Scripps-Mellie.)
Chicago, Oct. 18.—A masked highwayman, armed with two revolvers, invaded the Hegewisch station of the Pennsylvania Railroad company, shortly before midnight Monday and, after forcing the agent, Daniel Dukes, to open the safe and give him $400 in currency, struck the employee over the head with the butt end of one of his weapons and rendered him unconscious.
The highwayman then ran outside, where he encountered David James, the assistant station agent. Before the latter could offer resistance, the bandit dealt him a terrible blow over the head with his weapon, and he, too, fell senseless.
The highwayman made his way along the railroad tracks, secured a hand-car and was soon moving swiftly toward the Indiana boundary line.

Posse in Pursuit.
The pursuit after the bandit was taken up by a crowd of railroad section hands, and for several hours the posse of armed laborers searched the swamps along the tracks. The searching party was joined by twenty policemen, under the command of Lieut. Samuel Crane and Sergeant Connors, the latter, however, came from the South Chicago station with a squad of policemen.
A number of suspects were arrested by the policemen, but none could be identified. They were all released from custody.

The search was kept up until early Tuesday morning by the policemen, and a message was also sent to the Indiana authorities to keep a lookout for the bandit, who is thought to be making his way toward that state.
The invasion of the railroad depot was of the boldest order. The bandit while in the place could have been plainly seen by pedestrians if any had passed the building. About 300 feet south a gang of section hands were at work.

Faces Two Revolvers.
On entering the robber advanced quickly to the window of the ticket office. Inside the station agent, Dukes, was reading a paper, but when he heard the robber coming toward the ticket office he got up and started toward the window. As he was about to peer out through the small inclosure he was startled to find two re-

WOMAN SCORED THE LATE CURRENT FADS OF TODAY

Declares That the Big Store Windows Are the First Nails in the Coffins of Virtue.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 18.—"The good women should take some action on the fads of today. Too much thought is being given to fine clothes and pastimes. The windows of the city with their beautiful exhibits are the first nails in the coffin of virtue and are alluring children and young people to extravagant desperation. The horse show is more of a woman's show than a horse show, and the women of the federation should have enough backbone to declare their independence in the matter."
This statement was made by Mrs. George E. Colby of Irving Park in her report to the annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, made as the vice president for the seventh district. The meeting was attended by hundreds of women from all parts of the state.

The report of Mrs. J. H. Pattee of the fourteenth district showed that the country clubs are difficult to federate, the belief being that the individual loses development through state organization.
Union Label Causes Trouble.
Preceding the opening session, at which the vice presidents made their reports, the executive board held a meeting at which definite action was taken upon a matter which threatened to cause the convention body some trouble. Two years ago the women of the federation voted to give their printing to union offices. Recent strikes have caused the office in which this year's programs were placed to become an open shop. The program was ready for binding when the union was informed that the women were patronizing an open shop, and the matter was finally compromised by letting a union office print the covers, placing their stamp thereon, and

GOING AFTER A SEPARATE VOTE

LA FOLLETTE CAMPAIGN A BID TO DEMOCRATS.

NAT'L COMMITTEE AT FAULT

Opinion of Walter Wellman on Senator John C. Spooner—Other Political Gossip.

Chairman Babcock of the republican national congressional committee called on President Roosevelt recently and spent an hour with him reviewing the congressional situation. When he left the white house the congressman's chubby face was wreathed in smiles and in his hand he carried a large photograph of the president.

"You tell the president he has a clutch, and you get one of these in return," said Mr. Babcock, waving the photograph aloft.

"No, he did not tell me that I had a clutch, so I did not give any of my picture away," the president said.

House Will Be All Right.

Chairman Babcock, in speaking about the prospects of carrying the next house, said:

"Yes, I think there is no doubt that we will win. The result will be close, but the republicans will have a majority. I have not yet made any estimate of how the house will stand, but I will get down to that in about ten days. There are a few districts where contests over nominations are still on, and until these have been decided and the full tickets put into the field it will be impossible to make any accurate forecasts. But I told the president that the outlook from a republican standpoint was all righting majority."

If there is no decided change in the sentiment before election day, we will have a good working majority in the next house. We have not yet been hit and there are no signs of approaching cyclones."

Mr. Babcock referred to the action of the president in the Stearns investigation and said: "I think his course will help him materially with the people of New York state as showing his intention to enforce the law and punish those who willfully violate it. The English language is hardly strong enough to express one's feeling for an inspector who would permit a manufacturer to put iron into life preservers. The whole course of the president in this matter will still further increase the appreciation of the people for his respect for law."

New York Safely Republican.

Representative Dwight of the Thirtieth New York district was at the Whitehouse also. He said the best democratic leaders hoped for was majority in Greater New York of 110,000 and this indicated that they had only faint hopes of carrying the state.

"We can offset that 110,000 in the upper part of the state," he said, "and have plenty of votes to spare."

Senator Spooner has reached New York from Wisconsin and in discussing the republican situation in his state said: "The conditions are mixed and it is not certain that the electoral ticket will be carried by the republicans. Much depends upon the appointments for speaking in Wisconsin now and whether he should make any more speeches in the state depended upon future developments."

This Is La Folletteism.

If the republican national committee expects the La Follette support for the national ticket it will have to instruct its speakers sent into this state to make mention of the state as well as congressional nominees. Since Saturday night when Senator Fairbanks disappointed Governor La Follette's friends by not mentioning him in his speech, there has been much warm talk by the La Follette men, says the Record-Herald this morning.

"Roosevelt has not got this state yet," said one La Follette leader. "The national committee had to come to us after insulting us in Chicago. They saw at last on which side their bread was buttered and recognized us as the republican party in the state. We arranged the Fairbanks meeting, which was one of the largest ever held in Milwaukee, or would have been if there had been room for the crowd. In the face of this the speaker saw fit to ignore the governor. It looks as though this was done on the advice of the national committee to cut out state matters. If such is the case we will have another session with Mr. National Committee."

Protest to Committee.

It was said yesterday that this matter had been called to the attention of the national committee in a forcible manner by Chairman Conner, and much will depend on the answer. The first is now extending into the counties. "Stalwart" tickets will be put up in counties where La Follette men captured the county convention, and on the other hand, the La Follette men will place county tickets in the field where the "stalwarts" have the upper hand. An example of the first condition is Oconto county, where the party is nearly evenly divided between the factions. The La Follette men captured the county convention and nominated a ticket. Now the "stalwarts" will place a ticket in the field. In Marathon county, where the "stalwarts" are on top and the county ticket is "stalwart," the La Follette men have called a meeting for Wednesday, when they will, it is expected, put another county ticket in the field.

Wellman's Opinion.

Spooner is doubtless the greater man, so far as ability goes (referring to La Follette). He is one of the ablest lawyers in the United States. At Washington he is without question the actual leader of the senate, the foremost man in that greatest legislative body of the world. It is not alone as a brilliant debater, as a champion of a great party and of great measures on the floor, that he excels. There he is superb, matchless. In council, in framing policies, he is one of the wisest and soundest. During the last six years no other man in the senate has put his impress upon so many large things. It is literally true that nothing of importance is done in that body without his participation, his approval. No big decision is reached at the white-house without consultation with him. Two presidents—McKinley and Roosevelt—kept him close as a valued counselor. Three presidents—Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt—in vain urged him to take seats in their cabinets.

Men like this do not grow on every bush. Not every state produces them. And throughout the country there is one wish—that whatever else the feud within the republican party of this state may result in, it may not end in driving from public life John C. Spooner.

Town Talk.

"Well, sar, we got the start of those rebels more than once down in Andersonville forty years ago," said H. Baldwin when asked for further particulars regarding the rumor he held with Elijah Carter last week. "All being hungry all the time, it was each man shift for himself with us prisoner. If a fellow had a jack-knife he rented it out for so many teaspoonsful of meal. If he got hold of anything he could afford to part with he traded it out for food. Meal was the standard of value but soap and tobacco were well thought of. We saw little of either. One day one of the confederate officers needed a man who could write and I happened to get the chance of showing to him my qualifications. When he finished questioning me and took up some other matter at hand, I noticed that the soap I was sitting on had some eyes on him. I quietly began to scoop it out and store inside the slack of my blouse and under coat pockets. Before he noticed me and I had gathered together about two quarts. Well, sar, that stuff like to have burned the hide off me, but trading it my partner and myself got together nearly a peck of meal, besides scraping enough from the lining of my pockets for our own uses. He had a jack-knife and I borrowed it one day, telling him that I was going to get some tobacco. When I refused to tell him my plan he was afraid that I intended to kill somebody and begged me to give it to him. Reassuring him on this point, I started out. Some of these confederate officers were collecting Union army brass buttons and one of them, who had three staff buttons sewed on his coat, was offering a handful of twigs for a fourth one. There was a big crowd around him and I had to elbow my way in till I could stand right back of him and snip off one of those three buttons with that jack-knife. I managed to get out again without anyone noticing what I was up to, and then joined the crowd in front of him. He was tickled to death to make that trade and gave me a better bargain than he had at first offered. My partner was a Zouave from Pennsylvania and I traded uniforms with him so that I could be on hand to hear what the "Johnny" had to say when he discovered how badly he had been sold. I got around him in time to hear him offering another handful of tobacco for information that would lead to the apprehension of the scoundrel who played that trick on him. I let him trade with him that time. Elijah Carter was pretty anxious to get out of that prison but he had a conscience. I had never forgiven him for that. The maimed and the sick had the first chance, so Elijah secured a pair of crutches and looked as poorly as he knew how. Finally his chance came and they were just passing him out when that conscience went back on him and he threw away the crutches, declaring that there were other fellows who were really in bad health and he guessed he'd stick it out with the well ones."

Timothy Rochford Dead—Horse Was Frightened by Small Boys Waving Sugar Cane Stalks.

Frightened by the waving stalks of sugar cane in the hands of several boys in Milton the horse driven by Timothy Rochford last Thursday ran away, throwing Mr. Rochford from the wagon and fatally injuring him. One leg was fractured above the knee and a serious scalp wound was inflicted that required seventeen stitches and most of the time from the date of the accident until he died Sunday afternoon the injured man was unconscious. For many years Mr. Rochford was in the employ of the St. Paul road as section foreman and for the last few years has been engaged in landscape gardening, many of the lawns in Milton being his handiwork.

FOOTBALL GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

High School Plays Beloit High Saturday—First Warders Meet Fort Atkinson Team Sunday.

Two football games for Janesville teams have already been scheduled to be played in the next week. The high school team will meet the Beloit high school eleven on the gridiron in this city on Saturday and the First Ward team which played a night game with a Beloit team Sunday at Yost's, will buck up against the last year's team of the Fort Atkinson high school. The high school game Saturday is expected to be a red hot contest as the teams are supposed to be about evenly matched, though the Beloit eleven did not beat the academy team of that city by quite such a large score as the local did. The first ward team showed in their game Sunday that each player was a star but that some practice to develop team work would have made a difference in the score. The same two teams that played Sunday will meet again at the same place October 30.

A game between the second ward football team and an eleven picked from the telegraph students has been scheduled for Bunker Hill next Sunday. This is the only game with a local team that the ward eleven intends to play and if possible will secure contests with a team from Rockford, the Beloit city team and any other eleven in their class not made up of players from Janesville.

In Madison has been formed an Elks team of boys of high school age with an average weight of 135 pounds who are desirous of getting games with any team in their class that will play. They have played the Madison high school and were defeated by them by a small score.

COUNCIL HELD A GOOD ROADS MEET

AND PLACED NEW CONSTRUCTION ON WORD "REPAIR."

MAYOR REBUKED CHEERING

Delegation From Monterey, Led by Sam Grundy, Trampled on Traditions of August Assemblage.

At the session of the city council last evening, all of the city fathers being in their seats, Alderman Merritt introduced an order repealing the resolution passed October 21, 1899, wherein the word "repair" with reference to streets is defined as meaning whatever work is deemed necessary to restore them to their original condition rather than any operations in the nature of permanent improvements. During the year in question the Fourth avenue hill from Bluff to Cornelia streets was practically macadamized at the expense of the ward fund rather than the individual property holders, who would have been compelled to pay for it had it not been done under the head of "repairs." The expense was considerable, amounting to $2,500, and the resolution was introduced by the then Alderman Gilkey to forestall any future action of the kind. While this resolution may have guarded the ward funds from misuse, it has also proved an obstacle in the way of repairing gravel roads with crushed stone, that is to say, it would have done so had it been strictly observed. But in several instances of late years it has been disregarded and Alderman Merritt's order was introduced for the purpose of making past illegal actions legal as well as removing restrictions which are believed to seriously handicap the authorities in their efforts to secure good roads. The order was passed by a vote of 6 to 4. Aldermen Connel, Jackson, Murray, and Schwartz voting in the negative.

Back to Barbarism.

As predicted in yesterday's Gazette a large delegation from Western avenue was on hand to protest against the action of the city in putting gravel on that thoroughfare instead of crushed stone. Samuel Grundy was the spokesman and the aldermen granted him permission to address them. He said in part: "I'm here tonight as one of the residents of Western avenue to protest against the material used in fixing that street. It has been demonstrated time and again that gravel and sand, being put there, won't hold. We naturally supposed that when the crushing plant was established the primitive methods of fifty years ago would be relegated to barbarism. Western avenue is one of the main streets of the city and is the only street, to my knowledge, where gravel has been used for five years." At this juncture Street Commissioner Watson interrupted to correct the speaker and name several other thoroughfares where the same material had been employed.

Buy Crusher and Get Sand.

Continuing, Mr. Grundy said: "I'm satisfied gravel won't stay. The intersecting pipes are already filled up with it. Crushed stone is the best and the cheapest material to use. Why shouldn't the residents of Western avenue have the same kind of a street as those of the third ward? I move that the gravel now on be removed and crushed stone be put on in place of it." No one seconded Mr. Grundy's motion, so he continued:

MAYOR REBUKED CHEERING

Delegation From Monterey, Led by Sam Grundy, Trampled on Traditions of August Assemblage.

At the session of the city council last evening, all of the city fathers being in their seats, Alderman Merritt introduced an order repealing the resolution passed October 21, 1899, wherein the word "repair" with reference to streets is defined as meaning whatever work is deemed necessary to restore them to their original condition rather than any operations in the nature of permanent improvements. During the year in question the Fourth avenue hill from Bluff to Cornelia streets was practically macadamized at the expense of the ward fund rather than the individual property holders, who would have been compelled to pay for it had it not been done under the head of "repairs." The expense was considerable, amounting to $2,500, and the resolution was introduced by the then Alderman Gilkey to forestall any future action of the kind. While this resolution may have guarded the ward funds from misuse, it has also proved an obstacle in the way of repairing gravel roads with crushed stone, that is to say, it would have done so had it been strictly observed. But in several instances of late years it has been disregarded and Alderman Merritt's order was introduced for the purpose of making past illegal actions legal as well as removing restrictions which are believed to seriously handicap the authorities in their efforts to secure good roads. The order was passed by a vote of 6 to 4. Aldermen Connel, Jackson, Murray, and Schwartz voting in the negative.

Back to Barbarism.

As predicted in yesterday's Gazette a large delegation from Western avenue was on hand to protest against the action of the city in putting gravel on that thoroughfare instead of crushed stone. Samuel Grundy was the spokesman and the aldermen granted him permission to address them. He said in part: "I'm here tonight as one of the residents of Western avenue to protest against the material used in fixing that street. It has been demonstrated time and again that gravel and sand, being put there, won't hold. We naturally supposed that when the crushing plant was established the primitive methods of fifty years ago would be relegated to barbarism. Western avenue is one of the main streets of the city and is the only street, to my knowledge, where gravel has been used for five years." At this juncture Street Commissioner Watson interrupted to correct the speaker and name several other thoroughfares where the same material had been employed.

"Notwithstanding what the street commissioner says it is high time to discard the methods of fifty years ago. I don't know why we should spend our ward funds for sand after we've helped buy a stone-crusher."

Cheers for Schwartz.

Later in the session Alderman Schwartz reopened the subject of street improvement. He said: "I never believed there was any economy in fixing a street with poor material. What's the use of putting gravel on the streets? We're in the woods on some of this street repairing business." Upon hearing this sentiment the Monterey delegation, just outside the rail, broke into a storm of applause and Mayor Hutchinson rapped loudly with his gavel for order. Outward expression of the emotions is not to be tolerated in the council chamber. Crushed stone costs the city $1.50 a yard, while gravel can be secured with the added advantage of a shorter haul, for ten cents, 'tis said.

Assistant City Attorney.

The city treasurer's report for September and that of the finance committee were received. The judiciary committee reported the appointment of A. E. Matheson as assistant city attorney during Mr. Burpee's absence. Mr. Matheson kindly consented to act, there being no case on the docket to report on the service. The finance committee asked for further time to report on the sale of Court street bridge bonds. The assistant street commissioner's report on the building and repairing of sidewalks was adopted, costs being taxed to property owners. Sidewalk grades were submitted by the city engineer for the north side of Ravine street from Madison to High; the north side of Center from Academy to Locust, and Fourth avenue from Main to Bluff. H. M. Weaver and J. W. Webb were appointed by the mayor as special police officers without pay.

Sewer Contracts Awarded.

The sewerage committee announced that the contract for a sewer to be built from the Rock had been awarded to W. J. Hill, as the lowest bidder. While en route to the sewer from the Mole culvert, Alderman Groves reported that the order passed by the council had instructed the street commissioner to do the work but that it had subsequently been deemed advisable to have it done under contract and two bids having been received, C. Cannon had been instructed to commence the construction of the cement gutter with the proper catch-basin, etc., for $435. After the meeting W. J. Hill protested against this award to Mr. Cannon, claiming that his bid had been $35 lower than the Cannon bid. The special committee appointed at last session to take up the matter of private sewers recommended in its report that it be the policy of the city, in so far as it can be done legally and private sewers can be used, to have the same connected with the public system, assume control of them, and keep them in repair. An order was passed for the location of a man-hole on Jackson street, opposite the city hall, the expense to be borne by the fifth sewerage district.

Street Repairs and Walks.

The owners of lots 132-3-4 and 5 in Pease's second addition were given permission to build four foot sidewalks and the same permission was granted E. W. Lowell for the east side of block 1, Cole's subdivision, on North High street. The street commissioner was instructed to make repairs on Western avenue between Center and Linn; on Washington street between Pleasant and Wall; on Western avenue between Linn and Cherry; and on St. Mary street on Madison street on the north side of Ravine across Western avenue on the east side of Locust; and on Union street on the east side of Jackson. A sidewalk grade on the north side of South Third street from Jackson street to East was ordered.

Miscellaneous Matters.

The report of the board of education for August and September was received, placed on file, and ordered published. The city clerk was instructed to buy two carloads of paving brick and John Schuch was given permission to move a barn from his lot on Fourth avenue to his lot on Fifth avenue. Mayor Hutchinson called attention to the bad condition of the walks in front of the Central school, stating that he had seen a lady fall there Sunday. A motion introduced by Alderman Jackson that the acting city attorney investigate and compel the school board to act, was passed. On motion of Ald. Matheson the city clerk was instructed to box and store the voting machines in the city hall when not in use. Additional insurance to the amount of $1,000 on the contents of the city hall was provided for. Owing to the fact that the windows of the fifth ward voting booth have been repeatedly broken and the building itself occupied by people who had no right there, the city clerk was instructed to secure storm shutters for the windows. The clerk was also authorized to pay the proprietor of the Skelly wagon shop a reasonable sum for keeping his place open several nights each week in order that voters may have an opportunity to learn how to use the voting machine that has been set up there.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Oct. 18, 1864.—About the Thirteenth.—A day or two ago I received a letter from a member of Company E now at Point of View, which says that the regiment was never so bad a condition before. His company reported nine men fit for duty, hardly enough for camp guards, not to speak of picket lines. He was enjoying (2) fever and ague, "miserly loves company," he had the company of the whole regiment and the colonel said he thought he would be obliged to send the regiment en masse to the hospital.

A corporal of the same company just arrived and says there is one man now in the company fit for duty and at the last report of the entire regiment fifty were fit for duty. There were not enough to take care of the sick and while chills fever and ague was making such fearful havoc, their medical supplies gave out and no more could be had. Only think of a whole regiment in a hospital and no medicine to help itself with. I suppose one might complain to the administration, scold the Surgeon General, chafe at the power-that-be, and feed his own gluttony as he pleased and get no satisfaction at last, but it seems something could be done as well to keep sick men in medicine as well ones in rations. No doubt it is impossible to get the needed supplies but the amount of misery caused by the laziness or carelessness of some sleek government official, is beyond any definite estimate, and as it is utterly impossible to locate the responsibility in this world we can only hope that they will get their just dues in the next.

Meeting this Evening.—Don't forget that Hon. G. W. Hazelton, of Columbus, Ohio, and Senator Doolittle speak for Lincoln and Johnson this evening at the court room. Ladies especially invited.

Coming Attractions.

Next Monday night the Grand will have for its attraction that musical comedy extravaganza, "The Royal Chef," a musical comedy, that demonstrated its fitness as a public favorite by running six months in Chicago. The cast here, as well as the production is the same that won unstinted applause, during its memorable run in the windy city. The humorous story upon which the plot hinges is that of the adventures of one Heinrich Lemphausen, taking advantage of the glorious and glowing prospectus of a Cook's tour, takes this means of escaping from a political campaign, wherein he was a candidate for alderman. In his journey he lands on the mythical island of Oolong and is impressed in the service of the ruler of this land as the royal chef. He withstanding his protestations and his appeal for release on the grounds of his American citizenship. Submitting to what seems to him inevitable, he commences his labors as the culinary expert of the royal kitchen. Having been served with notice that unless his dishes favor with the regal palate, he endeavors to please the local sovereign with jokes and songs in order to cover up his deficiencies and ignorance of what can be evolved with pots and pans, spices and condiments. It is needless to say that this furnishes no end of humorous situations to which any audience can find funds for merriment and laughter, conducive to the best of good humor. The chorus acts as a material in promoting the story and the catchy songs and ballads rendered by a cast of unusual merit, will cause the "Royal Chef" to be a musical comedy that will long be remembered. Mr. Sam S. Shubert, who is managing this attraction, has provided a production lavishly in its beauty and has costumed the characters in raiment in keeping with the scenic environment.

Football Player May Die. Galesville, Wis., Oct. 18.—Frank Burke of Winona, Minn., aged 16, had his collar bone broken while playing in a football game here. He also sustained internal injuries from which he may die.

Death of Jersey Judge. Camden, N. J., Oct. 18.—Former Judge David J. Pancoast, one of the foremost members of the New Jersey bar, died at his home here after a long illness. He was 61 years old.

River Steamer Goes Down. Cairo, Ill., Oct. 18.—The transfer steamer J. S. Morgan struck an obstruction near the point below this city and sank in several feet of water. The crew escaped.

Diamond Jubilee. St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 18.—The diamond jubilee celebration of the St. Louis university was begun with solemn pontifical high mass at St. Francis Xavier's church.

Banker Is Arrested. West Liberty, Iowa, Oct. 18.—M. Beuthlen, president of the New Liberty Savings bank, was arrested on a charge of embezzling $14,000 of the bank's funds.

Elopement in West Virginia. Huntington, W. Va., Oct. 18.—Ellas Hatfield ran away with and married Miss Helen Holland, daughter of one of the largest coal operators in West Virginia.

Four Years for Slayer. Elk Point, S. D., Oct. 18.—John St. Pierre, slayer of Albert and Clarence Chaille, was sentenced to four years in the penitentiary.

Pioneer Merchant Is Dead. New York, Oct. 18.—James Aldridge, aged 87, the oldest active dry goods merchant in the state, is dead at Little Falls.

Woman Is Collision Victim. Port Jarvis, N. Y., Oct. 18.—A passenger train struck a trolley car, mortally injuring Mrs. S. Sarr.

Timothy Rochford met with a fatal accident Thursday afternoon. His horse was frightened by some small boys who were flourishing stalks of sugar cane and ran away. Mr. Rochford was thrown from his wagon and when spectators carried him to his house the physician found his leg broken above the knee and a serious scalp wound which required seven stitches. He remained unconscious most of the time until Sunday forenoon when he died. Deceased was for many years in the employ of the Milwaukee road as section foreman and since retiring from their service has been engaged in landscape gardening, many of the lawns in the village being his handiwork. Despite his age "Tim" was a hard worker and knew no idle days. He was respected by the whole community and his wife and children have the sympathy of all in their loss. The date for the funeral has not been fixed at the time of writing.

The German Market at the M. E. church last Thursday was an un-

French system of savante, or sparring with the feet and hands, called "The Royal Chef," a musical comedy, that demonstrated its fitness as a public favorite by running six months in Chicago. The cast here, as well as the production is the same that won unstinted applause, during its memorable run in the windy city. The humorous story upon which the plot hinges is that of the adventures of one Heinrich Lemphausen, taking advantage of the glorious and glowing prospectus of a Cook's tour, takes this means of escaping from a political campaign, wherein he was a candidate for alderman. Fresh from his record run of twenty-three weeks in Chicago, a feat hitherto unequalled by any musical comedy, "The Royal Chef" will make his bow to the theatre-goers of this city on October 24. This merry melange of hilarious harmony produced by the same great cast of comedians and singers not forgetting the celebrated beauty chorus which earned such high praise at the hands of the gentlemen of the press in Chicago and New York, the only two cities visited so far, will be in evidence here, and should no doubt create the same good impression as it has done elsewhere. This latest musical comedy drama is brim full of fun, and not a moment passes but that a laughing situation is given to the audience. There are thirty songs, thirty dances, and thirty sketches, and to stamp "The Royal Chef" as a success. The costume is of a most gorgeous character, and it is no idle boast when the management set forth the claim that it has attained the high water mark for lavish expenditure in this line. The cast and production is the same as was seen during its metropolitan run.

"Who's Brown?" That is the question that has been agitating the public mind for the past week or two, and the requisite answer will be given at the Myers Grand next Friday evening when this laughing comedy will be presented for the first time in Janesville. "Who's Brown?" has been making the theatregoers of London and the continent laugh to the limit for nearly three years. The piece was produced in New York last spring and duplicated its English success. American rights are owned by John T. Hall and William Morris, and the latter well known actor will be seen in one of the chief roles.

He remained unconscious most of the time until Sunday forenoon when he died. Deceased was for many years in the employ of the Milwaukee road as section foreman and since retiring from their service has been engaged in landscape gardening, many of the lawns in the village being his handiwork. Despite his age "Tim" was a hard worker and knew no idle days. He was respected by the whole community and his wife and children have the sympathy of all in their loss. The date for the funeral has not been fixed at the time of writing.

The German Market at the M. E. church last Thursday was an unqualified success, the receipts being $75.

Mrs. J. N. Humphrey, of Whitewater, spent Friday and Saturday with her mother, Mrs. E. M. Dunn. Milton College received a bronze medal at the St. Louis exposition for her exhibit.

Supt. F. Kilham was in the village Friday.

Mrs. G. W. Steele, of Whitewater, visited Mrs. C. E. Crandall, Friday.

Dr. L. S. Hurley and wife, of Janesville, spent Sunday with Milton relatives.

Dr. Schmitz returned from St. Louis Saturday.

Mrs. DeKnap, of Minneapolis, is visiting her mother, Mrs. E. M. Dunn. Miss Della Plumb left Saturday morning for La Fayette, Ind., where she will spend some time with Prof. H. T. Plumb and family.

W. A. Chaney has sold his residence on Park place to Jay Campbell. Mr. Chaney has not decided his future movements. Consideration, $3,500.

Miss Lizzie Jackson is visiting her sister, Mrs. Summers, at Monroe.

Mrs. J. M. Palmer, of Grays Lake, Ill., has been visiting her mother and sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira McNitt, of Port Atkinson, have been visiting their father, H. Jackson.

The Seventh-Day Baptist church of Milton, Milton Junction and Rock River united in a Harvest Home service in the Milton church on Saturday forenoon. It was held under the leadership of the Milton Sabbath school and took the place of the usual preaching service. The building was beautifully decorated with autumn colors, fruits and foliage, a part of which was made to represent a large rainbow. The program consisted largely of songs, recitations and class exercises, very largely by the smaller children. The building was crowded many being obliged to stand during the service. The exercises closed with a short and very appropriate illustrated address by the Rev. Arnold C. Davis, M. D., of West Edmeston, N. Y.

Dr. Platts went to Chicago Friday. A telegram was received by Geo. R. Boss Monday morning announcing that his brother-in-law, D. C. Ring, who resided in Denver, Colo., had been killed in an accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Blodgett, of Brandon, spent Monday at E. R. Osborn's. Julia Royce, of Whitewater, is visiting at W. R. Cleland's.

Mrs. W. N. Strong of Beloit, was the guest of Mrs. E. H. Pullan on Monday.

NEWARK. Newark, Oct. 17.—The Misses Gertie Merlet and Effie Roy returned from St. Louis. The girls think their time and money well spent.

Miss Rosemary Enright and Mr. Kruger, of Janesville, were the guests of Miss Beale Cox, Sunday.

Mr. Grover Kelly had the misfortune of having a general smash-up. Grover escaped without being injured. Master Richard Logan, who was with him, got his big toe sprained. Mr. Richardson acted as physician.

A number of Miss Amanda Hanson's friends gave her a pleasant surprise last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Beley, Sr., spent Sunday here, the guests of their daughters, Mrs. R. B. and L. O. Crowley, of Harrison, Ill.

Senator John M. Whitehead spoke on taxation at the Newark M. W. A. hall last Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilman Hendrickson spent Sunday with G. Mathum and family.

THE MONETARY SITUATION.

Henry Clews, the New York banker, says in his last letter that conditions in Wall Street are improving, and that the abundant crop, now being marketed, insures plenty of money and a steady volume of business. The balance of trade last month was in our favor and the treasury surplus increased, $13,000,000. In speaking of the foreign war and outlook for money needed, Mr. Clews says:

The increased firmness of money in Europe naturally attracts some attention, as in event of strain there and ease here an outflow of gold might be expected. Even this does not cause any immediate concern, for very soon, the supply of produce bills will increase, and we have, besides, such an ample supply of gold in this country that we can easily send a portion to where it will do more good for mutual benefit. Europe is more directly affected by the Russo-Japanese war than the United States, though indirectly we must also share the waste of energy and capital which that deplorable struggle involves.

It is estimated that if the war lasts two years it will cost Russia $1,500,000,000 and Japan one billion dollars, and that the two powers will have to borrow, combined, considerably more than $500,000,000 next year. With such demands as these in prospect upon the world's spare capital it is easy to see that European bankers who must furnish the shew of war view the situation with more conservatism than do our own financiers, who are somewhat removed from the influences of such waste.

Nevertheless, American bankers who take long distance views will not be oblivious to the effect here of any strain upon the European markets which would strongly increase the probabilities of exporting gold. Just at present, however, gold is coming to this country via the Pacific, and another favorable factor affecting the money market is the increase of government receipts and a decrease of expenses. A month ago the tendency was in the opposite direction, and there was talk of a treasury deficit, which would have compelled a withdrawal of funds from the depository banks.

VOTING MACHINES.

Janesville will use voting machines for the first time at the coming election and while the machines are on exhibition at a number of places in the city, it is safe to assume that many voters will not see them, and that much ignorance will prevail concerning the new method of voting.

The election officers are doing everything in their power to furnish information, and each voting place will be provided with a miniature machine on election day so that every voter may practice, if he desires, and know just how to vote when he enters the booth.

The method of voting is so simple that any man may master it with a little study. On entering the booth the first thing to do is to move the large lever at the top of the machine from left to right and until it stops. This closes the curtains and opens the machine for business. The name of the parties and candidates are before you, and the next move is to vote a straight ticket. This is done by turning the knob from left to right, which stands at the head of the ticket you wish to vote.

It is necessary to vote a straight ticket first, as no splits can be voted until after this is done.

When you turn the knob at the head of the ticket a knob in front of every name on the ticket turns to the left at the same time, uncovering a white X which shows that you have voted for every man on the ticket.

After this is done, if you desire to split the ticket, find the name on the ticket just voted, which you wish to cut out, and turn the little knob in front of it back to the left. If the name cut out is on the republican ticket, and you want to vote for a democrat instead, you will find in the first row the democratic ticket and in the same column of the name cut out the democratic candidate. You vote for him by turning the knob in front of his name to the left revealing the white cross. This is the method of splitting, whether one name or a dozen is cut out. The knob in front of each individual name to be cut out must be turned back, before the knob in the other column can be turned to the left. The votes are recorded by number on the back of the machine.

The man who wants to vote the entire ticket, except for governor, enters the booth, turns the large lever at top of machine from left to right until it stops, then turns the knob in front of republican ticket in third row from left to right, then turns the knob back in front of the governor's name and turns the knob in front of Peck's name from right to left, then turns back the large lever from left to right and the vote is cast.

The Fairbanks meeting, while well attended in Milwaukee, represented only a faction of the republican party. The long list of vice-presidents invited to a session of the platform carefully excluded the conservative element of the party, and even the two United States senators were ignored.

With a mixed population, Milwaukee had no trouble with voting machines. The vote was cast intelligently and results known in seven minutes after the polls closed. Janesville can certainly do as well.

Three weeks from today is election day and the bitter contest now going on between the factions will be settled. It remains for the people to say whether or not they want two more years of La Folletteism.

The voting machine is as simple as A B C. You must vote a straight ticket first, then if you want to split cut out the names not wanted and cut in the names for same office on ticket that you want to vote.

Mr. Frear was careful to avoid abusing Senator Whitehead in his address at Milton Junction the other night. It is possible that the governor is learning a few things by experience.

The supreme court did not say that the gymnasium convention was right. It simply said that the act of the legislature in 1898 made it legal.

The most dangerous leader is a sincere man who is wrong. Sincerity is no test of character where justice is involved.

If you want to vote the Scofield state ticket, cut out the La Follette ticket after you vote and cut in the Scofield ticket, which will be known as the National Republican ticket.

Don't vote for a governor who is doing all he can to defeat county and legislative candidates. That sort of republicanism is off color.

After voting don't forget the primary law under the list of questions at the top of the machine. Vote no by turning indicator to left.

Vote the straight republican ticket and then cut out the men who are disloyal to the party.

The democrat who votes for La Follette this year is a short-sighted democrat.

PRESS COMMENT

Marquette Eagle-Star: Trust to luck and you will wear patches on your trousers.

Milwaukee Sentinel: The La Follettees are feeling so reassured with Maj. Scofield in the field that they are lying awake nights to enjoy the sensation.

Cincinnati Commercial Tribune: Young ladies are now engaged in discussing matters affecting the grid-iron, but maintain a dense ignorance as to pots and skillets.

La Crosse Leader-Press: President Roosevelt will probably be surprised that the stalwarts did not get off the track when he sounded the going.

Scranton Tribune: Funny men are safe now in directing wit a Carrie Nation. The bar smashers will be behind the bars for the next six months.

Sheboygan Journal: Sheboygan's city poor superintendent classes by paper as a necessity. Judging by the September relief bills. Files certainly are no luxury.

El Paso Herald: Like all the rest of them Grover Cleveland comes out considerably stronger in talking about the "broad principles" that animate democrats than he does in explaining what they are.

Madison Journal: The plot to displace Senator Whitehead is shameful and it is the duty of every good citizen to prevent the consummation of this brazen political outrage.

Athol Globe: Some one asks, "What is love?" A Leavenworth girl by the pretty name of Mildred Marguerite Wilson is to change it to Mrs. George Michael Pralibowsky. We know no better answer to the question.

Racine Journal: It is expected that a regular nominated candidate for governor will observe the proprieties and not oppose regularly nominated republican candidates for congress and legislature. It is his bounden duty to support such.

Evansville Review: There is no law to prevent a farmer from tying a pair of deer horns upon a calf's head and turning it loose in the woods and then making you pay full value for the critter, but you are justified in telling him that it is a low-down trick, all the same.

Waupaca Post: Governor La Follette advocates a primary law, because he says the people should have the right to say whom their candidates should be. But when it comes to members of the proposed railroad commission, he says that they should be appointed, because the people cannot be trusted with their selection. And his hearers applauded.

Chicago Chronicle: Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker, of Denver, in an address before the Arch club advocated clubs composed of men and women. This is the limit. It is believed by many that the one-sex clubs are an injury to home life, but a two-sex club would probably do more harm in one year than could be repaired in ten years. If the women's clubs are thinking of admitting men they are proving that they ought never to have existed.

Moravian Falls (N. C.) Yellow Jacket: It is enough to make a smile play on the face of a smooth-tongued iron to listen at these little old scurvy scums of democratic editors just tearing their gizzards out by the roots trying to advocate "Jeffersonian principals." We are willing to bet our new office towel against a sour dish rag that nine-tenths of the so-called "Jefferson democrats," if they were to meet some "Jefferson principals" in the road, wouldn't know them from the jokes on a last year's almanac.

ASSAILING THE TARIFF

Democrats Seem Determined to Force a Disturbing Issue.

Signs increase that the Democratic leaders are determined to force the tariff issue to the front in the presidential campaign. While Republicans will welcome the discussion of this question, well knowing that it is sure to add many thousands of votes to their majorities, they cannot but regret the selection of the tariff as the main issue, because of the unfortunate influence it will have upon the business interests of the country.

So far this year the presidential campaign has not blocked business and financial activity. Affairs proceed as usual. In all lines of business there is a hopefulness and confidence which is most encouraging. But if the country is to be confronted with another visitation of tariff revision agitation, with even a remote chance of success in the election, there is bound to be a great slump in the industrial world and a corresponding depression in all business interests.

It is well remembered what happened ten years ago, when, as President Roosevelt puts it, "the last attempt was made by means of lowering the tariff to prevent such people from prospering too much." The attempt was entirely successful. The tariff law of that year was among the causes which in that year and for some time afterward effectually prevented anybody from prospering at all. Undoubtedly it would be possible at the present time to prevent any of the trusts from remaining prosperous by the simple expedient of making such a sweeping change in the tariff as to paralyze the industries of the country.

The people of the United States will not soon count again the destruction and panic of 1893. Once is enough for one generation. There will be a tremendous vote against tariff legislation by the Democrats.

The confidence of the country may stand even throughout a tariff revision campaign, but it is risking a good deal to raise that issue in the manner contemplated. They, however, have everything to gain and nothing to lose. They must have something to stand upon, and complete failure in every other attack made upon the Republican position has driven them upon the tariff as a standing outpost of Republicanism, which can always be assailed, when nothing else affords a convenient target.

Buy it in Janesville.

"It (the Republican party) always has been opposed to a degraded dollar, and at the earliest moment possible after the war brought every dollar of our money to a plane of absolute equality. It evolved order out of financial chaos in 1879 and has stood for the preservation of the purity with each other of our dollars—gold, paper and silver."—Senator Fairbanks in the senate, March 5, 1900.

Is Protection "Robbery?"

The Democratic assertion that "protection is robbery"; that the tariff is a tax on the American consumer, is best refuted by examining the effect of protection on the tin-plate industry. When the McKinley bill was passed nine-tenths of all the tin used in this country was manufactured abroad. Today the manufacture of tin is one of the most important of our home industries, contributing millions of dollars annually to our national wealth. But this is the least part of the story. In so far as the tariff is concerned—the price of tin began to go down in proportion as the United States began to produce it, and the American consumer has never paid under the McKinley tin tariff anywhere near as much per pound for tin plate as he paid when tin was on the free list.

Praise from a Democratic Newspaper.

The New York Times, one of the Democratic newspapers which has been denouncing President Roosevelt's Philippine policy, recently printed an editorial leader on the settlement of the Friars' land question. The article concludes: "It is creditable both to the intelligence and the humanity of the government." If the Times was less partisan it could truthfully say that every act of the Roosevelt administration in dealing with the Philippine question was creditable to the United States.

A Boomerang.

"Make Rooseveltism the Issue," demanded the New York World, and Democrats, big and little, began barking and snarling at the heels of the president, but the more they barked the more friends they made for Roosevelt. Now, Judge Parker, having seen the effect of the ill-advised issue, has asked his managers to drop Rooseveltism, but his admonition comes too late. Republicans will see that the issue is not lost sight of.

There seems to be one tie that binds New York's judicial candidate for the presidency and the Democratic candidate for governor of New York—they both voted for free silver in 1880 and 1890. Neither of them apparently would have conscientious scruples about voting for a yellow dog, provided he had the regular emblem of his party branded on both ears and wagged his tail without the consent of any other nation.

Judge Parker's attempt to pose as a bulwark against Democratic attacks on the "personal liberty and integrity of President Roosevelt" is one of the humorous incidents of the campaign. No Democrat has yet had the temerity to assail the president's personal honor and integrity, and none is likely to make the attempt while the president is awake. Parker evidently has gone into the circus business.

LEMON EXTRACT DEADLY POISON

THE STATE BEGINS AN ACTION AGAINST A. LAWSON.

ON COMPLAINT OF INSPECTOR

Jas. G. Moore of Wisconsin Dairy and Food Commission—Wash. Alcohol in Mixture.

In municipal court today was commenced the action of the State vs. A. Lawson, a wholesale grocer of Janesville charged with selling a certain brand of lemon extract containing deadly methyl or wood alcohol. The case promises to be an interesting one owing to the fact that the poisoning and death of scores of people in the east has recently been traced to the use of this same distillation in the adulteration of whiskey.

Bought in Local Store.
The action was started by James G. Moore, dairy and food commission, and member of the state dairy and food commission. Mr. Moore visited Janesville last week and in visiting one of the grocery stores here came upon this lemon extract with whose poisonous qualities he claims to have been familiar owing to a previous analysis. He ascertained from the grocer that the extract had been purchased from the wholesale house of A. Lawson and the dealer declared that it had been delivered in person. The law in this state requires that all proceedings must be brought against persons or their agents, corporations, as such are exempt.

Alcohol in Lemon Extract.
Extract of lemon according to law must contain at least five per cent of the pure oil of lemon dissolved in ethyl alcohol. The latter is not injurious and is very different thing from methyl or wood alcohol. The latter being much cheaper makes it worth while to the dishonest manufacturer to substitute. In compliance with the law all barrels containing vinegar must be marked with the percentage of acetic acid contained. Mr. Moore says that he discovered several violations of this requirement but in each case the offenders were kind to rectify it. The lemon extract was sent to the state chemist and his analysis resulted as Mr. Moore had foreseen. "Of course it is pretty hard on Mr. Lawson, but it's the only way we can enforce the law—by getting after the dealers," said the inspector this afternoon. The offense is punishable from $25 to $100 fine or imprisonment. Mr. Lawson has engaged attorneys and will fight the case. The hearing this afternoon was continued until Nov. 2.

Those who will go from here are Fred Howe, Robert Dostwick, Sam Warner, Geo. Eridge, William Farmer, Charles Evans, and Stephen Hotelling.

MILLION CANS OF CORN ARE PACKED

Have Finished Canning This Year's Crop at Hohenadel Factory—Kraut Now Being Canned.

Finally the work of canning corn at the Hohenadel factory has been completed and cabbage, which has been received constantly for the last few weeks and been cut and salted down in the vats, is now being packed in cans. It is estimated that about one million cans of corn were put up this fall at the local factory though no definite figures have as yet been learned. The sweet corn crop was very good this year but the cabbages are a little scanty, by no means as good for making sauer kraut as they were last season. The cucumbers for pickles have been an average crop and a large quantity of them have been prepared for the winter.

CURRENT NEWS NOTES.

For The Winter: The display fountains of the city are being cleaned out and will soon be covered for the winter.

Social Meeting: Last evening at the home of Miss Fannie Bennett was held a social meeting of the Kings' Messengers. Eighteen ladies young ladies were present, light refreshments were served and an enjoyable time was spent by all.

Social and Dance: At the East Side Odd Fellows hall tomorrow night the Wisconsin lodge, number 14 and Belknap lodge number 26, will hold a social and dance.

Twenty-Five Per Bushel: The potatoes that are now being brought in by the farmers by the wagon load are being sold at twenty-five cents per bushel.

Hold a Smoker: Last evening the Imperial band held their first smoker of the season. A good time was had by all.

H. H. BLANCHARD ATTACKED BY BULL

While Wheeling in the Vicinity of Lake Koshkonong Sunday Afternoon.

While biking on the road to Koshkonong last Sunday, H. H. Blanchard, a local resident, was attacked by a bull. The animal, which was a large, dark-colored bull, was seen by Blanchard as he was riding along the shore of Lake Koshkonong. He attempted to turn back, but the bull charged at him, forcing him to dismount. Blanchard was then attacked by the bull, which was driven off by a neighbor. Blanchard was injured, but not seriously. The bull was then driven off by a neighbor.

LONELY CROW IS MUCH TOO MEAGRE

Donors of the Emblem of La Follette Were Stung in Their Great Gilt.

To the Donors
The Gazette family is so large that one lone crow is a slim diet. The bird has been sent to County Clerk Starr, in the hope that it may stimulate this attack of indigestion. Crow, garnished with a La Follette, is a tempting dish these days. To be fully relished it should be served by the Peck.

CITY MAY HAVE TO PAY DAMAGE

For Alleged Defective Sewers and Sidewalks—Mrs. Emma Fathers Serves Notice of Injury.

Besides the claim for satisfaction from the city for damage alleged to have been done to her property at the corner of West Milwaukee and Pleasant streets by water not carried off by the sewers, filed with the city clerk by Kate Richter, formerly Kate Mattick, Mrs. Emma A. Fathers, wife of the city treasurer, served a notice of injury on the city council last evening. Owing to the uneven and irregular condition of the sidewalk in front of the Court street Methodist church and near the entrance of the music store, she avers that she fell and injured the ligaments of a knee, being confined to her bed and house, as a result thereof, for some time. The notice is served in order that, should the injuries prove serious, she may hold the city responsible and claim damages therefor. Chairman Jackson of the judiciary committee was unsuccessful in his effort to have the first notice referred to the sewerage committee. With regard to the latter, he asked for further time.

NOT WELCOME AT ROCKFORD HOTELS

Williams & Walker Colored Comedians, Had Difficulty in Securing Accommodations.

The Jarvis and Nelson hotels at Rockford are said to have refused accommodations to the colored artists of the Williams & Walker musical comedy company and they were granted quarters at the Chick only on the understanding that they should take their meals in their rooms. Many of the members were cared for by friends who secured quarters for them in private houses. Hotels cannot legally refuse accommodations but in the large cities it is the custom to name prohibitive rates if the guests are undesirable. Thus the management of the Great Northern hotel in Chicago informed Messrs. Williams and Walker, on the occasion of their appearance at the Great Northern theatre some time ago, that they would have to pay $25 a day for room and meals. The two colored comedians were "game" and staid at that price.

WHITEHEAD GIVEN LARGE OVATION

His Meeting at Hanover Last Night Was One of the Best Held This Campaign.

Senator Whitehead scored another signal triumph at Hanover last night. He spoke for two hours before an audience of two hundred that filled the Modern Woodmen hall for two hours and a quarter and listened to him tell of the doings of the last legislature and the bills enacted and the bills passed. The meeting was opened by town Chairman E. G. Brown, who in a few well chosen words, introduced W. O. Hanson of Beloit, nominee for the assembly from the third district. He talked for thirty minutes and then Senator Whitehead began his address. During the entire two hours and a quarter he spoke no one left the hall and all were intensely interested. When he had completed he was tendered an ovation seldom seen at a political gathering. La Follette men, democrats, social democrats and republicans all stopped to meet him personally and thank him for his address. During his stay in Hanover he was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Childs.

DAVEY WITHDRAWS HIS SUIT AGAINST VALENTINE SCHOOL

Parents Were Unable to Furnish Money for Carrying It to Upper Court.

On motion of the plaintiff's attorney the action of Wesley C. Davey vs. the Valentine School of Telephony started in Justice Earle's court as a minor and after attending the institution for a few days asked for the return of his tuition money and was refused. Last week the young man is alleged to have received word from his parents in Pennsylvania that they could not afford to advance the money for carrying the case through to the supreme court where it would in all likelihood be carried.

CHANGE IN HIGH SCHOOL ELEVEN

Selitz Out of Game—Wright Put in Fullback; Devins Guard, and Lee Center.

On account of the disqualification in studies of the center on the football team of the high school there has been made a change in the lineup different from any way in which the team has even practiced this year. Lee who has been playing tackle and guard during the former part of the season, has been put in center and last evening at practice fullback Devins was put in guard to fill the place of Lee and Wright who played full back in the second White water Normal game and quarterback one-half last Saturday, was again tried at full and will probably stay at that position. He is rather light for that position, weighing but 128 pounds, but he is the only available player and will be a star if he continues to do as good the rest of the year as he played against Whitewater here. Last evening a practice game was played with the second team and though the regulars have not got on their feet from Saturday's game, each one showed up well in his new position. In order to give the second team an object to come out other than to simply help the first, Coach Bartlett is trying to arrange a game to be played as a preliminary contest Saturday with a second team from Beloit high.

WANTED NO SALOON OPENED ON BRIDGE

Twenty Merchants Filed Petition Against Granting License, and Council Was in Accord.

Aggressive work on the part of Bert Van Houten of Beloit and Joe Harvey of this city, backed by the Grand Brewing Co. of La Crosse, to secure a license to conduct saloons in the building on the Milwaukee street bridge occupied by Connell's cigar store and A. Ellison's confectionary stand, were met with the unanimous veto of the city council last night. Over twenty merchants doing business in that vicinity had filed a petition against the granting of such privilege, on the grounds that the street was too narrow at that point, that hundreds of school children had to pass there every day, and that altogether the place was too prominent and conspicuous for an enterprise of the kind. It was voted not to grant the license and to return the $500 advanced to Mr. Van Houten. The signers of the petition allowing the license were: Amos Roling & Co., Janesville Electric Co., Janesville Spool Co., J. L. Ford & Son, Bart, Bailey & Co., Hall & Sayles, T. P. Harris, People's Drug Co., Nichols Co., King & Cowles, Janesville Music Co., Brown Bros., Herbert Holme, Geo. G. Sutherland, Ed. F. Carpenter, Archie Reid & Co., F. H. Koppelman, Charles Achterberg, Hayes Bros., and Jesse Earle.

JEFFRIS' SPEECH WELL RECEIVED

Janesville Man Tears the Lid Off the State Administration at Racine.

"Taking the Cover Off Republican State Issues," was the subject upon which Mr. G. Jeffris spoke at Lakeside auditorium at Racine last night before a crowd of 2,000 people, the largest of the campaign, possibly with one exception. At Hotel Racine, previous to the meeting, several hundred republicans gave him a reception and with a brass band hundreds followed him to the big building. The speaker was introduced by Attorney Wallace Ingalls and was greeted with cheers and applause which lasted fully one minute. Supporters of the state administration were not in considerable force and undertook to interrupt the speaker with cheers when the name of La Follette was mentioned, but it was noticeable that as the speech proceeded, these demonstrations became weakened, evidence that the exposures made by Mr. Jeffris had their effect.

The speaker reviewed the entire national fight in the state from the time the police, wrestlers and others lined up at the gymnasium in Madison, giving the delegates no show. He eulogized Sens. Quarles and Spooner; he explained how La Follette had practiced deception in telling the people how Senator Johnson voted against a certain bill when it was Assamblman Johnson who had committed the act, the bill never reaching the senate.

He discussed the needless expense of game wardens, there being thirteen under salary in Milwaukee alone. On mortgage taxation he explained how the governor now wanted the law repealed. He showed that the governor had a special train at $55 per day, which was worth $200 per day. At the same time he was going around agitating the anti-pass law, while state officials had passed. He touched upon the $21,000 grab of the insurance commission from the Prudential insurance company, showing that a state clerk was paid $1,400 for three months' work making examinations, while his salary was only $1,000. He reviewed the railway record of La Follette.

In the hotel lobby after the address an exciting controversy took place. C. C. Gittings headed a bunch of La Follette men and attempted to belittle the speech of Mr. Jeffris, openly charging him with making false statements. Those taking part in the wordy combat were Mr. Jeffris, Senator Johnson, Attorney Gillen, H. M. Wallis and others. When Gittings was asked to prove some of his assertions he was unable to do so and left the hotel.

The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by G. W. Dillingham Company

"Stanley shook his head. 'I can't say for certain; but I can tell you who might know.'"

"Who is that?"

"Mr. Roger Ireland."

George looked astonished. "But that is ridiculous," he said. "Mr. Ireland told me that he did not know."

"Oh, I don't say that he knows for certain. But he is better acquainted with the matter than you think."

"How did you come to know Mr. Ireland?"

"He called to see Miss Bull, and I dropped across him."

"How did you get talking of the case?"

"Well, you see," said Bawdsey easily, "we naturally talked of Mrs. Jersey."

and one thing led to another until I discovered that Ireland had been in San Remo when your father was murdered. I wished to find out who killed him, so I questioned Mr. Ireland."

"Why do you wish to know who killed my father?" asked George.

"Because I think that the murder of Mrs. Jersey is connected with that crime. See here"—Bawdsey cleared his throat—"Mrs. Jersey was in San Remo at the time of the death."

"How do you know that?"

"Don't I tell you I questioned Mr. Ireland?"

George looked sharply at the detective. "What made him tell you to make him talk? Mr. Ireland knows how to hold his tongue."

"Well, when he found that I was looking after the case of Mrs. Jersey—and I made no secret of that—he was good enough to tell me all he knew. He thought, as I did, that the murder in San Remo was connected with the crime of Amelia square. There is nothing more to say. Mr. Ireland declined to tell me who he thought was guilty, but he hinted that he had seen the lady in the blue domino unmasked."

"Did he recognize her?"

"I think he did, but he assured me that he could not be sure and that he had not seen the lady again."

"Then he did know the face?"

Bawdsey's face assumed an impenetrable expression. "I can only refer you to Mr. Ireland," he said. "And as to Lola—"

"Oh, she'll turn up again," said Bawdsey irritably. "Don't worry me about Lola. I wish you would marry her and take her back to your native land."

"What land am I native of, Mr. Bawdsey?" asked Bawdsey calmly.

"America, I understand. You blushed as much when we met."

Bawdsey shook his head. "I am as English as you are," he declared.

"Well," said Bawdsey, with a shrug, "I thought as much. Your accent falls at times. You are not a good actor, Bawdsey."

"Never your mind, sir. I can hold my tongue when it suits me, and on this occasion it does suit me. But remember, Mr. Bawdsey, that whatever happens you have a friend in me."

"Are you referring to my father's murder?"

"And to Mrs. Jersey's. I have my suspicions, and—well, there's nothing more to be said. When I am certain I shall let you know."

"One moment, Bawdsey," said Bawdsey as the man had his hand on the door. "Do you suspect Miss Bull?"

"Why should I suspect her?" asked the detective in surprise.

"Because she was not on good terms with Mrs. Jersey, and you have taken up your abode in the house."

"To watch her, you would say. Well, maybe," rejoined the man composedly. "I know what I know, and when I am more certain of what I know, sir—"

He nodded. "Good day," he said and went.

It struck George that Bawdsey was a most mysterious person and knew far more about the San Remo murder than Derrington could have told him. Still it was possible that Derrington had unobserved himself to Bawdsey, and it was necessary to do so if he wanted the murder of Mrs. Jersey cleared up. And Derrington, from his refusal to admit that he was at the house on the night and about the time the crime was committed, seemed to know something that might lead to the detection of the assassin.

"Humph," said George to himself when alone, "I shall go round and see that old man. It seems to me that Bawdsey is trying to serve two masters. It is impossible that my grandfather can know the truth. Let me, going by his height and figure and that subtle, clear colored count, he was certainly in the house on the night in question."

On arriving at St. Giles square, he saw a carriage at the door of the Derrington mansion. On asking for Lord Derrington, George was informed that his lordship was engaged with Mrs. Ward and could see no one. Bawdsey turned away, wondering that he had not recognized the carriage, and he was still more vexed with himself when Dorothy put her head out of the brougham and called to him.

"My dearest," he said softly, "so that the coachman and footman might not hear, 'this is an unexpected pleasure. Why are you not inside?'"

"My mother wished to see Lord Derrington alone," replied Dorothy. "I am waiting till she comes out. She has been with him for half an hour. I don't know what they are talking about."

It was at this moment that a message was brought out of the house from Mrs. Ward saying that her daughter could drive home, as she would not be disengaged for another hour. Dorothy looked puzzled. "I can't understand," she said. "There is something wrong with my mother. Lord Derrington came to see her one day, and she has been upset ever since."

George shook his head. He suspected Mrs. Ward of knowing more than she chose to confess, and based his suspicions on the fact of the yellow holly, which she had given Dorothy to present to him. Meanwhile, he kept these suspicions to himself and made some excuse. "Oh, Mrs. Ward and my grandfather are probably talking over my iniquities," he said easily. "But I don't see why I should not take advantage of this chance."

"What do you mean, George?" asked Dorothy, with a becoming blush.

"Well, here is the brougham, and here you are. Why shouldn't we drive around the park before you go home?"

"My mother will be angry," said Dorothy, hesitating. Then she blushed again. "But I shall brave her anger. We have much to talk about, as I wish to speak of Lola Velez."

"Dorothy, surely you do not think—"

"No, not! But I want to ask you a few questions. I believe she is mad, George. Get in and we will drive round the park."

Meanwhile Mrs. Ward was seated in a chair facing Lord Derrington. The old gentleman looked savage, but Mrs. Ward was quite at her ease. They had been having a war of words, and Mrs. Ward so far had come off best. The conversation had been in reference to the sentence whispered in the little woman's ear when he had made her promise to hold her tongue about George.

"Of course, I do think it is the meanest thing a man can do," said Mrs. Ward bitterly. "What if I did cheat at cards? Every woman does that, and I was losing no end of money."

"I don't think your friends would take that view," said Derrington grimly. "I came to hear of the matter quite by chance, and it is plain that you won over a hundred pounds by cheating."

"It's that horrid Mrs. Wayflete who told you."

"No, if Mrs. Wayflete knows she has held her tongue. I learned it from a source of which you are ignorant. But the fact remains you cheated, and if your friends knew it you would be ostracized by all of them."

"As if they did not do these things themselves," retorted Mrs. Ward. "But since you have been so nasty I intend to be nasty too."

"I shouldn't advise you to be nasty to me, Mrs. Ward. I have a large reserve fund of strength."

Mrs. Ward laughed. "You needn't repeat my adjectives," she said in her most frivolous manner. "If you want to know the way in which I intend to protect myself—"

"What do you mean by that?"

"I mean this," cried the little woman, growing angry all at once. "I am not going to be threatened about that unfortunate episode connected with the cards. It was that horrid Mrs. Wayflete who told you, so don't deny it. I am not going to be threatened without holding my own. Besides, I want Dorothy to marry your grandson."

"Which one?" asked Derrington coolly.

"You have only Walter Vane."

"Excuse me, George Derrington, whether there is a marriage or not, is equally my grandson. I admire him very much, and it is my mind to acknowledge him as my heir."

"I thought as much after your sticking up for him the other day," said Mrs. Ward furiously. "Now, look here, Lord Derrington, if Dorothy marries that Brendon creature I won't be able to do a thing with her. You know quite well I won't. But Walter shall be Dorothy's husband. I have made up my mind."

"Because he's a fool and putty in your hands."

"I shouldn't be vulgar if I were you," said Mrs. Ward in a dignified manner. "But in long as George Brendon leaves Dorothy alone I shall say nothing."

"That's really very good of you, Mrs. Ward."

"Your being nasty won't make me change my mind. But you quite understand the situation, Lord Derrington. Walter is to marry my daughter, and George is to be kept away."

"I don't see how he is to be kept away. I assure you Brendon is a strong man, and his will is quite equal to mine."

"Nonsense! You have the strongest will in London."

"And you come here to try to break it."

"Life is a game," said Mrs. Ward, leaning back, with a pretty air of philosophy. "And at present I hold the trump card."

"What is it?" asked Derrington, wondering by what means she hoped to make him consent to her demands.

"I'll tell you presently," said Mrs. Ward in a most masterful tone, which amused Derrington. "But you understand that if George Brendon doesn't keep away I shall give information to the police and have him arrested in connection with that murder."

"Oh, no; you won't," said Derrington good humoredly.

"Oh, yes; I shall. As to your accusation about my having cheated, you shall say nothing about that."

"Indeed I shall do so if you trouble Brendon."

"Think of Dorothy."

"I do think of Dorothy, and I'm very sorry she has such a mother."

"You dare to insult me," began Mrs. Ward when Derrington, who was losing patience, cut her short.

"Two had enough of this," he said sharply. "You shall hold your tongue about Brendon or I'll tell what I know."

"Then I'll do the same."

Derrington bowed politely. "By all means," he said. "My reputation is already so bad that a word or two from you can scarcely make it worse."

"Oh, it's more than that," said Mrs. Ward quietly. And she spoke in so positive a manner that Derrington began to recollect his worst sins. "Do you remember the night you came home here at 1 o'clock and found me in this very room?"

"Yes. You came with the amiable intention of telling me that George Brendon was going to pass the night at Mrs. Jersey's and that you suspected that he was up to mischief."

"I took the trouble to come from a party for that very purpose," was Mrs. Ward's plaintive reply. "And how was I received?"

"Mrs. Ward, I am getting tired of this circumlocution. What is it you have to say?"

"Well, on that night you were in a fur coat."

"My usual coat in winter."

"It was the night when Mrs. Jersey was killed."

"Was it indeed? I never noticed the coincidence."

"No, but you knew about it," said Mrs. Ward. "You threw your coat on your sofa. I sent myself near it by chance. There was something hard in the pocket of the coat. When you were out of the room I took the something out. There it is."

And she held an Italian stiletto to the table.

"What is that?" asked Derrington calmly, but with an anxious face.

"That," said Mrs. Ward, touching it daintily with her finger, "is the weapon with which Mrs. Jersey was stabbed."

"It's he Continued."

Gund's Peerless BEER

is brewed by the famous Gund Process, from absolutely pure water, choicest imported hops, and selected barley malt, under the most exacting conditions of cleanliness, which modern sanitary science can devise. Hence you cannot buy a beer which is quite so good, quite so delicious in flavor, or quite so wholesome and nourishing as

Gund's Peerless

Expert brewers of America and Europe have conceded this.

When ordering beer from your dealer demand GUND'S PEERLESS and accept no other.

Free--"The American Boy."

ALL BOY

Six months subscription to this most valuable magazine--the best Boys' paper published--absolutely free.

Buy $4.00 or more in our Children's Department--it may be suit, cap, extra pants, waists, or anything in the department making your total purchase $4.00 or over and we issue you a card and when presented at the Children's department each month will secure you a copy of this bright, clean, wholesome magazine, "THE AMERICAN BOY"

The American Boy stands as one of the unique successes of modern journalism. Editorially, the paper is all boy. It stands with boys and for boys, upholding manly sport and endeavor and cultivating in its readers ideals of true American manhood.

The various departments into which its 32 pages are divided make a mental menu that should make a boy's mouth water. The story feature is made prominent. Stories of sport and adventure, on land and sea, and judiciously intermingled with stories of manly endeavor in school and in the workshop and office. History and biography are given their due place, usually in the form of story suited to the boy's taste. The editor of the American Boy is running a story of his own entitled "Three Yankee Boys in Ireland," by which he seeks to teach the boys lessons of history, biography and travel in seductive form. A mere naming of the department headings indicates the varied contents of a single number: Stories, History, Biography, Travel, the American Boy Lyceum, the Order of the American Boy, the Boy Photographer, Boys and Animals, Boy Meets the Home and School, Boys as Money Makers, and "Tangles."

Parents, who have long wanted something educational and attractive in the way of a periodical to take the place of the yellow back stuff that offers its glaring poison to boys on every hand, should give The American Boy practical endorsement and support. The subscription price is $1.00 the year; sold on news-stands at 10c per copy.

ALLEGED SPOOK MUST PROVE HE IS NOT INDIAN

Brooklyn Medium Is Held on Charge of "Rough House" at a Spiritualistic Seance.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 18.--Hugh Moore, "materializing medium," alias John Doe, alias "Running Water"--the spook of an Indian--must prove that he is not the latter, for there is an assault charge against the red man's spirit, which is to be thrashed out later in the court of special sessions. In the Gates Avenue police court Moore was held in $500 bail on each of two charges. His wife, too, must stand trial.

Mrs. Moore was charged by Mrs. Ida Sawtelle, who says she is an "inspirational" medium, and a very different sort from the Moores, with taking money from her at one of the seances. Magistrate Furlong ruled that the giving of the money was not compulsory and so discharged Mrs. Moore. There followed great applause, mingled with cries of "shame."

Next, both Moore and his wife were held on a charge of exhibiting a little girl known to the spiritualistic world as "Little Pansy." This brought forth more cries of "shame!" from the Moores' friends and applause from their foes.

Then came the climax. Mrs. Sawtelle and Mr. Rasmussen identified Moore as "Running Water," and then and there the warrant, charging the spook with assault, was served upon Moore. He denied that he and "Running Water" were one, but he was held for trial. After that there was no semblance of order for several minutes, for sympathizers and foes mingled their cries into a perfect babel.

Robert Recht, a witness who speaks Sioux, said he tried to converse with "Running Water's" wrath, and believing him to be a fake, tried to seize him. The spirit quickly started a "rough house" and knocked Recht down and out. Other witnesses said that the Moores had a typewriter upon which messages from the dead were written. That only expert spooks were called, seemed to be shown by the fact that witnesses declared eighty words a minute was by no means an extraordinary bit of work.

Match Man Is Dead.
New Haven, Conn., Oct. 18.--Ebenzer B. Beecher, aged 74, well-known match manufacturer, and son of Amos Beecher, whose invention of a machine completely revolutionized the match-making industry, is dead here.
